

Monique Jackson Is a single mother of one daughter who resides in Georgia by way of California. Monique is the Executive Director and CEO of M.O.L.E.I.A. Enterprises LLC (ME) is a multifaceted consulting firm committed to providing quality, professional and comprehensive services in the community. Additionally, she is the Founder of Concerned Citizens for Community Change 501c3- and the Adult Advocate for M3 Youth Move Chapter formed through her National Federation of Families Chapter

Monique has taught special education in public schools, been a center director of early learning centers, and was an administrator. She has owned and operated a Construction company and millwork business. She has worked with state agencies in early intervention as a service coordinator and supported families with children with special needs. She has been a leader in her field, receiving awards and accolades for her work in education. She has mentored and been on panels and part of focus groups to bring about change and direction for early interventions on legislative levels.

Monique has been advocating for women who have been victims of abuse for over 25 years and has been a change agent for mental health awareness for over 34 years. Her passion for helping others and empowering women is admirable. Being a survivor of domestic violence and a product of mental health and living with anxiety, she believes in ensuring everyone learns how to advocate for themselves. She is willing to partner with other organizations and community leaders to make changes and provide resources, so this is possible.

Her background is extensive in early intervention, mental health wellness, advocacy, and public speaking. She has been an entrepreneur for most of her life, traveling across states helping and advocating for families, women and children.

Monique holds a dual Bachelor of Fine Arts in Design and Marketing from American Inter-Continental University, a Master of Art in Philanthropy and Development from Saint Mary's University at Winona, and a Master of Science in Educational Studies from Capella University. She is a proud member of Girl Scouts, Jack and Jill of America, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Incorporated, Blacks Speakers Network, NAACP, and The National MBA Association.
